QUESTIONS :

1- What type of cases do you enjoy defending the most and why?

The cases that I value the most are the ones where the impact reaches beyond just the legal result. Where I can help a client find their voice and use it to defend themselves. Where a client finds the courage to take responsibility for their mistakes and I get to play a role in their story of change. Where, at the end of the case, the Crown or police recognize a better way forward. Where a judge is persuaded to craft a creative, meaningful sentence that supports genuine rehabilitation and can guide future cases.

It's the cases that reveal the human side of criminal defence work. They are the ones that stay with me, and the ones that remind me why this work matters, not just for my clients, but for everyone in the justice system.
